

MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 11, 1910.

PENNSYLVANIA will get $41,000 from the federal government if a bill which passed the Senate goes through the House. It provides for the payment of interest upon money borrowed by the state for the equipment of troops at the opening of the civil war. The money paid by the state for the equipment of troops was returned by the general government long ago. So much for Pennsylvania, but the money loaned the government by Virginia to aid in erecting the Capitol and other public buildings in Washington nearly a hundred years ago when Virginia was rich and the government poor, still remains unpaid.

SENATOR LODGE, as chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate the high cost of living, reported to the Senate Thursday a bill making it punishable under the pure food act to keep in cold storage more than one year any article of food, and requiring that all articles to be stored for any considerable length of time to bear a label telling the period of the time stored. The bill should become a law after the time limit has been cut in two. Articles of food that have to be put in cold storage are perishable articles and "perish" in much less time than a year when so stored.

FOR the first time in 20 years Representative John D. Russell, of Pennsylvania, finds it necessary to absent himself from his place in the House in the midst of a session and go home to make a fight for re-election. He left Washington for Pittsburgh yesterday and will devote several days to an attempt to stem the tide that seems to be moving strong in the Thirtieth district for former Mayor Robert J. Black, of McKeesport, as the republican candidate for Congress this fall. Mr. Russell's stand for pro-life is too pronounced for even some of the Pennsylvania protectionists.

WALLACE PIERCE, of Boston, a few days ago showed the finance committee of the Senate very conclusively that the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill was responsible for high prices and cited many instances to prove his statement. But the senators would not admit this even were it to rise from the dead and point out its truth.

WILLIAM R. BUNYON, a young man who states that he is seventeen years of age, is under arrest in Savannah charged with a series of burglaries that make the case unique. He has confessed, according to the police, that he is guilty of the crimes, and that he committed them only for the love of excitement, stating that he did not need to work or make money, as his mother is a practicing physician in Richmond, and is a woman of sufficient means to provide for him. This is the second instance noted during the past few days where young men have committed crimes to enjoy the excitement they produced.

From Washington.

A motion to dismiss the writ of error in the case of Charles R. Helke, secretary of the sugar trust and one of those indicted for alleged customs frauds in sugar weighing, was today made before the U. S. Supreme Court by Solicitor General Bowers on behalf of the government on the ground that there was no final decree in the case below in the case.

With the House insurgents declaring a lasting peace and promising support to the Taft measures, and the Senate insurgents denouncing what they accept as an attempt to read them out of the party, a peculiar situation arose today as a result of the speeches of President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham Saturday night. All the insurgents seem inclined to accept President Taft's "open arms to all" declaration Saturday night in the spirit in which it was offered, and they admit that it will certainly help to clear the foggy congressional atmosphere. So all would be plain sailing were it not for that demand of Wickersham at Chicago, "Let him depart." On this point the insurgents are warring. Some declare that if Wickersham went to Chicago as a representative of the administration, the president is in the position of having ordered a speech which directly contradicted his own statement made at the same time that "No man can read another out of the republican party."

All hope of holding the International Aviation meet of 1910 here has been practically abandoned by the Washington-Baltimore Aviation Club.

With the administration railroad bill before the House of Congress as a privileged measure, indications today are that the House and Senate will settle down to a month or more of steady gridding debate on the bill. The most optimistic leaders in the Senate expect the railroad bill will not pass this body before May 1, and not one of the House leaders will hazard a prediction. After both Houses pass the bill it will probably spend several weeks before a conference committee before the differences in the House and Senate measures can be reconciled. Then there will be other Taft policies to be considered. Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, anti-injunction, postal savings and conservation legislation will all require time for their disposition. From present indications it will require all of the time Congress can get from now until June 25 to dispose of the business now pending. Despite the apparent eagerness of members of the House to get "back home" and look after politics there seems little hope of an adjournment before that date. The first vote to be taken on an amendment to the Taft-Elihu railroad bill is promised as a feature of the afternoon proceedings today. Mr. Heyburn is the author and he promises the establishment of a system of land courts.

The first real sight of Halley's comet from this country was claimed today by Professor Asaph Hall at the United States Naval Observatory. It was 4:15 o'clock and the comet was 54,000,000 miles away but there is no doubt that Professor Hall has spotted it because he says it is just like the press notices said it would be. This is no small honor for the professor as all the mightiest telescopes in the world have been sweeping the sky along the supposed course of the comet for months. Professor Willis Moore has issued a bulletin to allay the fears of timid ones in which he points out the idea of a collision between the earth and the comet.

Despite the declaration of the Fullman Company that it will appeal from the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, lowering sleeping car charges, railroad men today declare that the appeal will only delay the reduction which they say is inevitable. The commission in its investigation of the matter developed that the Pullman Company since 1899 has distributed in regular and special dividends, $113,500,000. In 1898 the capital stock of the company was $36,000,000, while in 1908 it had increased to $100,000,000.

The feeling that somebody "overlooked a bet" when the administration failed to send a representative to Europe to meet Col. Roosevelt became pretty general in official circles today when it became known that Gifford Pinchot and the former president took a long walk together this morning at Porto Maurizio. The name of Gifford Pinchot was cheered Saturday night in the face of the president at the Republican Club banquet. Nick Longworth mentioned it in making a point in defense of the tariff and referred to Pinchot as the highest authority on forestry in this country. The dinner decided that was the place to cheer and interrupted his line of argument. The president was clearly displeased and his close friends looked upon the incident as "little short of insulting."

In reply to a cablegram from President Pagliaro of Porto Maurizio, telling of the reception of Col. Roosevelt and sending greetings, President Taft today cabled Pagliaro: "I have received your courteous cablegram announcing that former President Roosevelt arrived last night at your city and was received enthusiastically by the whole population and that your city is proud to welcome him. I am proud to assure you and all your countrymen that the American people are very grateful for, and greatly appreciate, the reception which the Italian, from sovereign to the humblest subject, have accorded to our most distinguished citizen."

On account of the fact that there are only seven members of the Supreme Court now sitting, Chief Justice Fuller today announced that the appeal of the Standard Oil Company in the dissolution suit brought by the United States will be restored to the docket and be heard. The same order was entered in the tobacco trust case. Chief Justice Fuller made the announcement in the barest terms, shortly after the court convened. It means that there will be no final determination of the big anti-trust cases until next fall. The court will adjourn for the term probably on May 31, and attorneys agree that it will be impossible for the rehearing to occur in the intervening period. That the court is irreconcilably divided on the merits of the two cases is the opinion of the practitioners. It is the opinion of those most intimately associated with the work of the court that up to the time of Justice Brewer's death the eight justices of the tribunal voted 4 to 4. His removal from the bench resulted in a breaking of that tie. The decision to rehear the litigation was arrived at because of the fact that there is at present only one justice on the bench above the six required by law to constitute a majority, and because the tribunal felt that public interest required a fuller membership on the bench to weigh the most important suits the government has ever instituted against trusts. Postponement of a definite decision in the two anti-trust cases, practically that all suits now may be in contemplation, must be held in abeyance. In the face of the court's determination to rehear cases, it is confidently anticipated that President Taft will at any early date announce his selection of a new member of the tribunal, to succeed the late Justice Brewer.

The appointment of Major General George M. Randall to succeed the late General Hawkins as governor of the Soldiers' Home, in the District of Columbia was announced today by Secretary of War Dickenson.

More rumors of Cabinet changes are in vogue today, the last being that all the members but Secretary Myers, of the navy and Attorney General Wickersham will soon retire. One rumor had it, Roosevelt had read the riot act via Messrs. MacVegh, Ballinger, Nagel, Hitchcock and Knox were to be replaced by Roosevelt "fighters, for the good of the party."

By the breaking of a railing around a third-story porch in the rear of her home this morning, Mrs. Regie Spandauer, of 929 D street northwest, fell a distance of thirty feet and was fatally injured.

Roosevelt and Pinchot Meet. Porto Maurizio, Italy, April 11.—Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, arrived unexpectedly in Porto Maurizio at midnight and after a few hours sleep at the Palace Hotel, went early this morning to the villa of Miss Oates, where he was given an enthusiastic greeting by Mr. Roosevelt. The latter and Pinchot later took a two-hour stroll on the mountains.

Sixty-first Congress.

(Second Session)

Washington, April 11.

SENATE

The rivers and harbors bill was today reported to the Senate by Senator Nelson.

In a minority report Mr. Newlands says that the part of the $500,000,000 expended for rivers and harbor improvements that has been devoted to the rivers has been expended with few beneficial results. He attributes this to the fact that river transportation has not been studied as a science and that the nation has not worked with any definite purpose. Mr. Newlands urges an amendment giving the president power to appoint a board of experts who shall work out the transportation problem.

Notice was given by Senator Burton (rep. O.) that he will also submit a minority report and expects it to be ready Wednesday.

The creation of a national conservation commission is proposed in a bill by Mr. Newlands, which the Senate committee on conservation decided today to recommend for passage. The commission members are to serve for a term of three years and without salaries. An imposing list of duties is assigned to the commission.

A large number of petitions were presented asking for the immediate removal of the wreck of the battleship Maine Havana harbor.

The Senate enacted a resolution providing for the discharge from the army of any officer who serves as much as three months in prison after having been convicted by the civil courts. The resolution is directed against Capt. Peter O. Hahn.

HOUSE

The item of $2,500 for the maintenance of the speaker's automobile again caused trouble when the conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was presented to the House today.

The democrats who succeeded in having the item knocked out before the bill was sent to conference, again offered emphatic objections to the restoration of the item in conference.

The House on a viva voce vote declined to approve the conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill containing the item of $2,500 for maintenance of the speaker's automobile. Twenty-two insurgents voted with the democrats against the approval of the item.

The Rebellion in Albania.

Constantinople, via Philippopolis, April 11.—Four Turkish cruisers and eight torpedo boats steamed for the Adriatic today to assist in suppressing the rebellion that is now sweeping practically all of Albania. The entire army corps is also hastening to the scene.

Today's dispatches say that several thousand rebels are tearing up the tracks of the Uskup-Mitrovica Railway in order to delay the arrival of the loyalist reinforcements.

It is reported that the rebels ambushed an entire regiment of government troops near Mesina, killing most of the soldiers and blinding and maiming the prisoners taken.

The government's offer of taxation concessions to the Albanians if they would lay down their arms has been flatly rejected by the rebel leaders.

The rebels demand the restoration of the old regime and the return to power of Abdul Hamid.

News has been received here of an interior war in northeast Arabia, in which 500 natives were killed in three days. This outbreak is believed to be a reflex of the Albanian revolt, and it is feared that the insurrectionary spirit will spread to other provinces.

Died in a Restaurant.

Newark, N. J., April 11.—A man believed to be Garrett Logan, of Boston, died last night in a Market street restaurant. He had entered the restaurant and ordered something to eat. He took a seat at a table and while the waiter was filling his order he took a bottle of whiskey from his pocket. "Here, a little," he said to George O'Brien, who was sitting opposite him. O'Brien took a drink from the bottle and the other man barely wetted his lips. A moment later he fell forward to the table dead.

Midshipman Wilson Dying.

Annapolis, Md., April 11.—Midshipman Karl D. Wilson, of Covington, Ky., cannot live more than 48 hours. This was the final verdict of the naval surgeon today after an examination of the cadet whose spine was fractured during the football game with Vassar on October 10 last. For 36 hours there has been no palpation evident in his wrist and he has wasted almost to a skeleton.

TAFT AND WICKERSHAM.

Holding out welcoming arms to such insurgents as may be induced to return to the republican fold, President Taft Saturday night declined to strike the keynotes for the coming congressional campaign, or to read the dissenting members out of the party.

Instead of the expected "keynote" speech he pleaded with "every republican" in the national legislature to rally behind the Taft policies and redeem the platform pledges of the party.

The president was the first speaker of a long list that addressed the dinner of the League of Republican Clubs of the District of Columbia. He said: "We read nobody out of the republican party. We want them all in the ranks. I don't wish to say anything that will seem to indicate that I feel that those men are not as sincere in their republicanism as I am."

News of the Day.

Baton Rouge, La., has decided after much study and meditation that the soul of the mathematician Euclid is reincarnated in William J. Sidis, Harvard's prodigy.

James, alias Reddy" Gallagher, a notorious burglar with a long prison record, was killed with a club in Philadelphia yesterday morning, after a desperate struggle, by Samuel Zsazszenian whose house he had entered.

Samuel Gompers was cut short in a speech at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia Saturday by C. P. Neill, Commissioner of Labor, acting as chairman.

Mrs. Taft has announced that a series of garden parties, similar to those she gave last spring at the White House, will be given again this season. Friday afternoon, May 6, is the date set for the first one.

According to a published report, the State of Colorado will receive $160,000 from the estate of the late Thomas F. Walsh as an inheritance tax. The estate is valued at $8,000,000, and the inheritance tax is computed at 2 per cent.

Matthew D. Doss, who told the Chicago police last Friday that he killed his wife, Lillian Doss, at their home, in Washington in January, 1909, has repudiated this confession. Doss says he wanted to secure free transportation to Washington.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has declared the Pullman sleeping car rates to be excessive, and has also ordered that upper berths should not cost as much as lower berths. A reduction in rates in some instances has also been made.

A Baltimore and Ohio express, west-bound to Chicago, and a westbound freight locomotive crashed yesterday three miles west of Fetterman, which is a short distance from Gratton, W. Va. One man was killed and five were injured.

After an exciting chase, Franklin Fair, an artist and alleged bigamist, who jumped a $3,000 bail bond in New York, was captured on the roof of a boarding house in Rockledge, Philadelphia, at midnight. He is being held pending the arrival of regulation papers.

There occurred yesterday the most extensive fire in point of area covered—that New York city has ever known. Two miles of buildings were burned, and yet with only a nominal loss. The structures destroyed were the stables in the old Morris Park race track. That the fire was of incendiary origin is beyond question.

Eight men were instantly killed and three badly injured by the premature explosion of a heavy charge of dynamite at a construction camp on the Texaco extension of the Santa Fe Railroad near Nevitt, Texas, yesterday afternoon. One man is missing. The bodies of the men were torn apart into shreds by the force of the explosion.

One dwelling was burned to the ground, five were barely saved, and hundreds of dollars' damage was done by a forest fire in the vicinity of Bowie, Md., yesterday. The fire started at Lanham, and burned its way through the thickly wooded forest to Glen Dale, a distance of 3 miles. Ties burning along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad spread fire to the woods. The flames were under control at 10 o'clock last night.

One policeman will be dismissed and three others probably will be severely reprimanded as the result of an investigation which Maj. Sylvester, superintendent of police of Washington, Inspector Bayle, and Capt. George Williams have made of charges against three men regarding their conduct toward a young white girl who was a prisoner at the Fifth precinct police station on the night of April 2.

At the close of his sermon yesterday in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church in New York, Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked asked the members of the congregation for contributions for building the new $600,000 church, and in half an hour he had received written pledges amounting to $162,000. John D. Rockefeller, who was present with his son, promised to give $250,000 for himself and family, provided the other $250,000 was pledged by others of the congregation.

Chinatown, New York, had two highly successful murders yesterday, an attempt, that made a brave beginning, but miscarried by reason of faulty shooting, and one abortive holdup. Chong Fook was shot three times in the chest while standing on a street corner, and died before he could be carried to a hospital. Chong Hen was arrested. Joe Mon, a laundryman, was found dead in a store in Doyer street, with a bullet hole in his right side. Nobody has been arrested.

Losing control of a Curtiss biplane, which he was operating at Memphis, a height of 75 feet, J. O. Mars plunged downward with terrific speed into the midst of the aviation course yesterday, alight on top of a touring automobile, in which were seated three women and two children. The canopy tumbled over the touring car and the lives of its occupants, only one of whom was slightly injured. The biplane smashed into bits and Mars was caught under the wreckage, but escaped with slight injuries.

John P. Cudahy is on his way from Los Angeles, to Kansas City and a reconciliation with his wife is in sight, the estrangement caused by his assault on Jere S. Little, the Kansas City banker, having been patched up by the young man's father, Michael Cudahy. This information was disclosed by friends of the Cudahy family, following the departure of Mr. Cudahy last night from Pasadena.

Two Chinamen were killed and one was seriously injured yesterday in a series of shootings marking a renewal of the long war in Chinatown.

Forest Fires.

Landover, Md., April 11.—Forest fires, due, presumably, to a spark from a locomotive, burned over, approximately, 2,000 acres of Prince George's county timber-land and threatened the villages of Lanham, Seabrook and Glendale, near Washington, on the Pennsylvania railroad, Washington and Baltimore, and Annapolis railroad. The fire started yesterday, and after an all-day fight watchmen pulled the borders of the burned area all of last night. Today the watch is continued, for fear the wind may spread the blaze which is still burning fiercely. Thousands of cords of pulp wood—wood which had just been cut and stacked for shipment to the paper mills—was destroyed.

Virginia News.

Druggists and newsmen in Newport News kept open their stores yesterday despite a warning given them by Justice Brown that they are violating the Sunday law.

Adj. Gen. Sile has issued an order naming Dr. James F. Lynch, of Norfolk, former major of the medical corps of the Virginia State troops, with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Mrs. Anna Maria Rozzel, wife of Stephen George Rozzel and daughter of the late Col. George Mayer, of Baltimore, died at her home in Washington Saturday, aged 69 years.

President Alderman, of the University of Virginia has received letters from Andrew Carnegie and Senator Root regretting their inability to be present at the proposed founders' day exercises at the university next Wednesday.

The third district congressional committee met Saturday and ordered that the primary to nominate a congressman in that district to be held August 9th next. The fee for the primary was fixed at $750.

Because some of the players on the baseball team were caught smoking cigarettes, which are under a ban in the institution, the faculty of the Virginia Christian College, at Lynchburg, has ordered the team to cancel all of their games for the season, which will be done.

The annual election of the Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of Waterford, was held on Monday last and resulted in a complete reverse of the directors named a year ago—that is—practically those who were displaced at the last annual meeting were reinstated.

Hundreds of delegates from throughout Virginia will be in Norfolk to attend the nineteenth annual convention of the State Sunday School Association which will begin at Epworth Church tonight. An address by Governor William Hodges Mason will be the principal feature of the first session.

W. M. Mansey, clerk for the United States Court at Danville, was frisked yesterday afternoon in his office at the postoffice building. Dr. Mansey was formerly a deputy in the federal court office at Lynchburg. Mr. Mansey took a great interest in religious matters, and was engaged in copying some quotations from the Bible when stricken.

The residence of Capt. J. W. Christman, at Charlottesville, narrowly escaped destruction by fire yesterday morning. The clothes of the cook, Martha Payne, aged about 20, caught fire in the kitchen. She ran to the upper part of the house, and on her way set fire to the tapestry in the hall. The flames spread rapidly, but were soon checked by prompt assistance, rendered by the neighbors. The girl was probably fatally burned.

Mr. and Mrs. John Whitmore, who reside on their estate near Brandy station, Culpeper county, were murdered yesterday morning about 2 o'clock, and but for the rare presence of mind of Mrs. Whitmore and her ready eye and knowledge of firearms both might have been killed. Their assailant entered their bedroom through an open window and dealt the couple a blow with a bludgeon. He evidently sought to crush the heads of both by one blow, but in the darkness his aim miscarried, and the only injuries inflicted were a bruise on Mr. Whitmore's shoulder and one over Mrs. Whitmore's eye. Mrs. Whitmore leaped from bed and grabbed a revolver. The assailant fled through the window. She fired at him, but missed.

THE METHODISTS.

The Maryland annual conference of the M. P. Church is still in session in Baltimore.

The sessions Saturday were principally taken up with addresses by Rev. Fred C. Klein, secretary of the board of foreign missions, and Rev. C. H. Hubbell, secretary of the Young People's Work. Dr. Hubbell made a plea for a greater and wider spread of religion. He said it paid to advertise church activities and great religious movements. He also deplored the tendency to neglect prayer, saying it was harder to pray now than ever before in the history of the world. This is due, according to Dr. Hubbell, to the fact that age in which we live; the "automobile age," as he called it. He also urged upon the pastors to give the children work to do in the churches, and keep alive the young people's societies.

The committee on itineracy and orders reported that Rev. E. L. Brancham was a candidate for elder's order, and was ordained yesterday. J. H. Tull and Lewis E. Pardon are to be received on trial, and Rev. S. W. Rosenberger will be transferred from the Muskogee Conference. A number of undergraduates were reported as advanced in their classes, and Rev. W. O. Mumford and E. W. Sims were placed in the hands of the president for appointments. The committee refused the application of Rev. A. A. Biehl, a member of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, for membership in the Maryland Conference. Rev. Mr. Biehl was formally a minister in the Maryland Conference but withdrew.

The election of trustees of the Maryland Conference for the term expiring in 1913 resulted as follows: Revs. F. T. Little and S. J. Smith, and Messrs. J. H. Roberts and A. C. Benjamin. President Sheridan appointed as fraternal delegates to bear greetings to the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at the annual conference in 1911, Revs. F. T. Little and J. S. Bowers, and Mr. Thomas J. Wilson.

The special committee which has been considering the merger between the Maryland Conference and the New Jersey Conference reported that they viewed favorably the proposed union, but because of the number of important details to be arranged before the union could be accomplished, the appointment of a commission of six—three ministers and three laymen—was recommended to meet with a similar commission from the New Jersey Conference and report back at the next Maryland conference. The report was adopted, and President Sheridan will announce the commission tomorrow.

Rosevelt formally yesterday opened the new boulevard in Porto Maurizio, Italy, named after him, and he was acclaimed as the "Apostle of Peace."

Fifty years' experience of an Old Nurse. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is the prescription of one of the best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and has been used for fifty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. It relieves the child from pain, cures diarrhea, griping in the bowels, and wind colic. By giving life to the child it saves the mother. Twenty-five cents a bottle.
